Dear Dr Malik

Further to your application for a research degree place at the University of Plymouth, we are pleased to issue the following unconditional offer.

Student reference number (SRN):	10649969
Date of birth:	31 October 1980
Programme:	4181 - MPhil/PhD Applied Health Studies
Project title:	Is Implantable Doppler Flow Probe (IDP) effective as a monitoring device for graft perfusion in kidney transplant practice: a mixed method randomized controlled study at the local transplant surgery unit.
School:	School of Nursing and Midwifery
Faculty:	Faculty of Health
Offer:	Unconditional
Place of study:	Plymouth
Mode of Attendance:	Part Time
Start date:	1st April 2021
Duration:	4 years part time + 2 years writing up (subject to successful progression to PhD)

Please note that you will be required to be enrolled by no later than 2 weeks after the start date indicated above.

Supervisors, subject to availability:

Director of Studies:	Professor Jos Latour, email: (jos.latour@plymouth.ac.uk)
2nd Supervisor:	Dr Somaiah Aroori, email: (s.aroori@nhs.net)
3rd Supervisor:	To be confirmed

It is the responsibility of the Director of Studies to provide the majority of your supervision and support on a regular and frequent basis. Your Director of Studies is there to assist with the planning of the programme and to give advice on a project structure, work planning and milestones. Exact programme of study may be subject to ethical approval.

The place will be for twelve months in the first instance. Subsequent renewal of the place is dependent upon the satisfactory progress of your research, which includes a twelve month probationary period in the first year and annual reviews. Also note that confirmation of enrolment does not guarantee transfer from MPhil to PhD (if appropriate) or award.

Tuition fees for 2020/2021:	The University of Plymouth fee for the full 2020/21 academic year is £3,030.
	As you are starting your studies part way through the academic year, in April 2021, only one semester fees (50% of the annual fee) will be payable (£1,515). The full annual fee (2 semesters) will be charged on re-enrolment in August 2021.
	You are responsible for paying your tuition fees.
	For information on how to pay, please visit the Frequently Asked Questions section in the University of Plymouth website fees page .
	Fees are subject to annual review and for subsequent years will be at prevailing rates at the time.

	Resubmission fee (if applicable)	Resubmission fee (if applicable)

Please find information on fees for research degrees here.

Fees will be charged until the submission of the thesis for examination with the exception of when resubmission is required. A resubmission fee will be charged if you are required to resubmit your thesis for examination. Should you transfer to another programme once enrolled, please refer to the Research Degree Handbook and the University of Plymouth website for information on the relevant fees for that programme.

This offer is made to you on the understanding that you agree to the conditions of the University of Plymouth Admissions Policy for Research Degree Students and the University of Plymouth Regulations. For further details about postgraduate study, see the Doctoral College website or the Postgraduate Study Page.

Student Contract: please note, in accepting this offer of a place on the above course, you are accepting the terms and conditions set out in the University's student contract with you (available at www.plymouth.ac.uk/your-university/student-contract) and the other documents referred to in that contract, which are also available via the University website. Unless otherwise agreed, the latest versions of these documents will apply. Accordingly, you should read this and the other documents carefully. Please refer any queries to Doctoral College.

Disability and dyslexia advice and support: we do all we can to make arrangements to meet individuals particular support needs. A disability can be a mental health condition, dyslexia or any other specific learning difficulty, autism, or long term medical condition – such as epilepsy or diabetes. If you have a disability, please ensure you have read the information on our webpages - www.plymouth.ac.uk/disability.

All students are required to attend a University-wide induction session, in addition to your local one. At induction you will be given information on University regulations, procedures, the generic skills training available and how to use GradBook and central resources, such as the library and recreation services. It is also an opportunity to meet fellow students.

You will be invited to the next available induction, which will be held online the week commencing 19 April 2021. Participation in an induction session is compulsory.

If you need further information on your application please contact Dr Jane March-McDonald (e-mail: jane.march-mcdonald@plymouth.ac.uk) or the Doctoral College (e-mail: doctoralcollege@plymouth.ac.uk).

Please reply by signing a copy of this letter and returning it to the Doctoral College

Following receipt of your signed offer letter, you receive information on enrolment.

Yours sincerely

Professor dr Roberta Mock
Director of the Doctoral College
